

AAPM Global Research Mentorship Program (GREMP) - 2024 Fellowships

The International Council of the American Association of Physicists in Medicine (AAPM) proudly presents the Call for Applications for the 2024 Global Research Mentorship Program (GREMP) fellowships.

Are you:

- Conducting research within Low- and Middle-Income Countries (LMICs)?
- Eager for guidance from an experienced mentor to advance your research?
- Mentoring an early-stage graduate researcher in the field?

What GREMP offers:

GREMP presents a structured mentorship initiative to elevate the mentoring experience through global collaboration. Focusing on pairing global mentors and mentees, this program fosters growth and facilitates expertise exchange in medical physics. Financial support is available for international mentees and potentially their mentors for two activities: (1) attendance at the annual AAPM meeting and (2) a short-term scientific visit to the AAPM mentor's institution. Further details can be found here.

How GREMP operates:

Under GREMP, mentor-mentee pairs from medical physics programs in LMICs collaborate with established AAPM mentors from recognized medical physics research programs. This collaboration aims to bridge gaps, establish networks, and facilitate the exchange of knowledge and skills.

Let's collaborate:

Join us in building enduring networks of mentors and mentees worldwide, with a specific emphasis on involving researchers from LMICs. GREMP provides a structured platform to enrich the mentoring experience through global cooperation. Additional program details are available below:

The "AAPM GREMP Description" document offers a thorough insight into the program. Our typical process begins with the collection of questionnaires, followed by outreach to selected candidates for additional information, such as CVs and personal statements.
